

The Pig-Pen Alphabet

A KEY TO THE CIPHER OF THE FREEMASONS, THE ROSICRUCIANS, AND SCHOOLCHILDREN

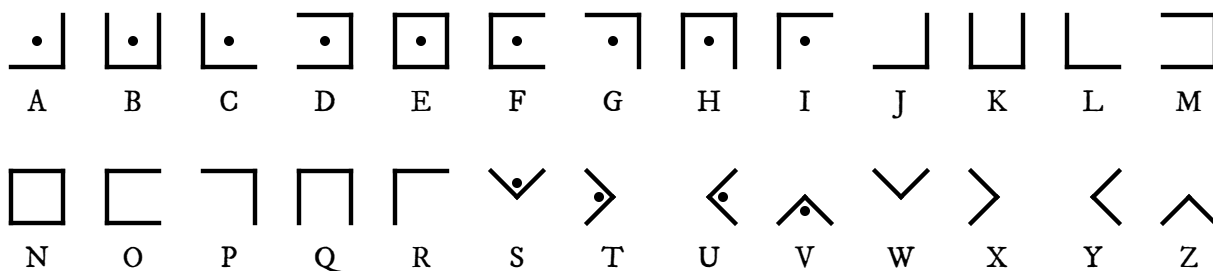

Pocket Library Series · No. 4

Each letter is written not by its name but by the shape of the pen it lives in. Find the letter in one of the four figures below and draw the lines that enclose it, and nothing else; the dot marks the second set. To read a message, do the same in reverse: match the shape to its pen, and take the letter that sits in it. The alphabet is set out in full underneath for the impatient. Note that these pens are not arranged as every printer arranges them; trust this sheet and nothing else.

The four pens, left to right: J to R, then A to I with a dot, then W to Z, then S to V with a dot.

THE ALPHABET IN FULL

FOR PRACTICE

The line below reads: THE QUICK BROWN FOX JUMPS OVER THE LAZY DOG

