SHEETS THAT CHANGED AFTER THE FIRST PRINT RUN

Swap them into the packet and bin the old ones

How to use this file. The pages after this one are in packet order. Print the lot, then swap each set for the pages it replaces. Everything not listed here is unchanged, so keep what you already printed.

WHAT CHANGED

PACKET PAGES	SHEETS	WHAT AND WHY
3-4	2	Cipher plates I and II Rim text no longer runs into the cut line; the rim and Plate II now say which ring is written and which is meant; the hour hand points straight at the 3.
5-15	11	Parlour songbook The Barista's Hornpipe moves from air 1 to air 12, so it is no longer the first thing she sees. Its two note numbers are still 12 and 15.
16-17	2	Stars and their notes Ed Sheeran moves from near the top of the list to 26th of 32.
26-27	2	Cartomancer's guide The Jokers are set as a fifth suit instead of a box, and the real one is The Coloured Joker.
29	1	Pig-pen alphabet The dots no longer collide with the letters or the gridlines.

The songbook is optional. Your printed copy still works: the Barista's Hornpipe still numbers the dotted half note 12 and the pair of beamed eighths 15, which is all the puzzle needs. Reprint those eleven pages only if you want that air buried in the middle rather than sitting first. If you skip it, also skip the Stars sheet, since the two were regenerated together.

Not in this file: the game-master pages at the back of the packet (the wall to trace, the setup guide, the cipher solution). Reprint those from the full packet whenever you like; they are for you, not for her.

The Horological Cipher

PLATE I OF II · THE DIAL

Cut round the outermost edge. The second plate turns upon the centre mark.

The Horological Cipher

PLATE II OF II • THE HANDS

Cut round the edge and fasten upon the centre of Plate I with a pin, so that it turns freely. Set the hour.

The Parlour Songbook

TWENTY AIRS FOR THE BEGINNING PLAYER

With every Note Shape numbered for ready Reference • Whitlock & Sons, Music Sellers

In this collection each note shape that appears in an air is marked with a small figure above it, so that the student may look up the shape in this Key and learn its name and value before attempting the piece. The figures differ from air to air, as every air has its own lesson plan; a shape's figure in one air tells you nothing of its figure in another. Play slowly, count aloud, and do not be discouraged by the Landlord's Jig.

The Stars & Their Notes

A MUSICAL MISCELLANY • FROM THE PAGES OF THE PARLOUR GAZETTE

We wrote to thirty-two celebrated persons and asked each of them two impertinent questions: which air from The Parlour Songbook they play most often, and which two note shapes in it they hold dearest. To our astonishment, all thirty-two replied. Their answers are printed below without correction.

TAYLOR SWIFT

"I write the bridge first and the rest of the song is just an excuse for it."

Favourite air: March of the Small Paintings.

Favourite notes: the quarter rest, then the single eighth note.

HARRY STYLES

"A note is only as good as the trousers you play it in."

Favourite air: The Painter's Gavotte.

Favourite notes: the grace note, then the pair of beamed eighth notes.

BEYONCÉ

"Every rest is a choice."

Favourite air: The Tram to Brunswick.

Favourite notes: the quarter note, then the quarter rest.

DOLLY PARTON

"A rest is just a note that's thinking."

Favourite air: Farewell to the Fourth Floor.

Favourite notes: the flattened note, then the pair of beamed eighth notes.

ELTON JOHN

"I have a piano in every room and a favourite note in every piano."

Favourite air: The Sunday Crossword Rag.

Favourite notes: the two tied quarter notes, then the dotted eighth and sixteenth (the gallop).

BILLIE EILISH

"Quiet notes are louder."

Favourite air: March of the Small Paintings.

Favourite notes: the dotted eighth and sixteenth (the gallop), then the sixteenth rest.

ADELE

"If it doesn't make somebody cry, add a dot to it."

Favourite air: The Fire-Escape Waltz.

Favourite notes: the dotted half note, then the dotted quarter note.

BRUNO MARS

"Play it twice, and the second time wear a hat."

Favourite air: Hymn to the Dishwasher.

Favourite notes: the sharpened note, then the half note.

LADY GAGA

"I was born with this note."

Favourite air: Song of the Sock Drawer.

Favourite notes: the flattened note, then the dotted eighth and sixteenth (the gallop).

RIHANNA

"I don't play the notes. The notes play me, and they pay for the privilege."

Favourite air: Waltz for a Geneticist.

Favourite notes: the single sixteenth note, then the half rest.

HOZIER

"There is a church somewhere that owes me this note."

Favourite air: The Sunday Crossword Rag.

Favourite notes: the staccato note, then the grace note.

OLIVIA RODRIGO

"This is the note I'd play at my ex's wedding."

Favourite air: The Painter's Gavotte.

Favourite notes: the grace note, then the pair of beamed eighth notes.

STEVIE WONDER

"You can hear a smile in a triplet."

Favourite air: Waltz for a Geneticist.

Favourite notes: the grace note, then the single sixteenth note.

SABRINA CARPENTER

"Short, sweet, and it leaves before you're ready."

Favourite air: Lullaby for a Houseplant.

Favourite notes: the two tied quarter notes, then the staccato note.

PAUL McCARTNEY

"John never liked this one, which is why I play it."

Favourite air: Waltz for a Geneticist.

Favourite notes: the two-note chord, then the grace note.

CHAPPELL ROAN

"Loud, pink, and in the wrong key on purpose."

Favourite air: Song of the Sock Drawer.

Favourite notes: the dotted eighth and sixteenth (the gallop), then the staccato note.

BAD BUNNY

"Any note is a dance note if you commit."

Favourite air: Serenade for the Last Slice.

Favourite notes: the staccato note, then the eighth rest.

PHOEBE BRIDGERS

"It's the sad one. Obviously it's the sad one."

Favourite air: The Sunday Crossword Rag.

Favourite notes: the pair of beamed eighth notes, then the half note.

KEANU REEVES

"I don't play. I listen. This one's nice."

Favourite air: Lullaby for a Houseplant.

Favourite notes: the eighth-note triplet, then the staccato note.

LIZZO

"I play this on the flute while doing something else entirely."

Favourite air: The Milkmaid's Lament.

Favourite notes: the pair of beamed sixteenths, then the staccato note.

SHAKIRA

"The notes don't lie."

Favourite air: The Copy-Shop Reel.

Favourite notes: the run of four beamed sixteenths, then the grace note.

ZENDAYA

"I was told to pick one, so I picked two."

Favourite air: The Painter's Gavotte.

Favourite notes: the staccato note, then the pair of beamed sixteenths.

CÉLINE DION

"I hold this note until the room agrees with me."

Favourite air: Coffee at Dawn.

Favourite notes: the pair of beamed sixteenths, then the two-note chord.

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN

"Four bars of this and the whole county shows up."

Favourite air: The Copy-Shop Reel.

Favourite notes: the dotted half note, then the two tied quarter notes.

KACEY MUSGRAVES

"Slow it down and it turns into a porch."

Favourite air: The Copy-Shop Reel.

Favourite notes: the pair of beamed sixteenths, then the run of four beamed sixteenths.

ED SHEERAN

"I could play this one in any coffee shop in the world, and I have."

Favourite air: The Barista's Hornpipe.

Favourite notes: the dotted half note, then the pair of beamed eighth notes.

NOAH KAHAN

"It's the sound of leaving Vermont and coming straight back."

Favourite air: The Milkmaid's Lament.

Favourite notes: the quarter note, then the staccato note.

TOM HANKS

"I don't know what it's called, but I like the look of it."

Favourite air: Serenade for the Last Slice.

Favourite notes: the staccato note, then the pair of beamed eighth notes.

DOJA CAT

"I don't have a favourite note. Fine. Two."

Favourite air: The Fire-Escape Waltz.

Favourite notes: the eighth-note triplet, then the dotted eighth note.

CHARLI XCX

"Fast. Faster than that."

Favourite air: Coffee at Dawn.

Favourite notes: the half rest, then the single eighth note.

PEDRO PASCAL

"I would protect this note with my life."

Favourite air: Air for a Rainy Tuesday.

Favourite notes: the run of four beamed sixteenths, then the quarter note.

MITSKI

"It's a rest. Let it rest."

Favourite air: The Landlord's Jig.

Favourite notes: the two-note chord, then the two tied quarter notes.

JACK OF SPADES — an untrustworthy young man; its fortune is sought in a tub of protein powder.

QUEEN OF SPADES — a widow, or a woman alone; its fortune is sought in the salt cellar.

KING OF SPADES — an ambitious man; its fortune is sought inside the Coup box.

♦ JOKERS — matters that fit nowhere else

THE COLOURED JOKER — the fool who knows everything and says nothing; its fortune is sought in the Dutch oven.

THE BLACK JOKER — the fool who says everything and knows nothing; its fortune is sought inside a rolled-up yoga mat.

The Pig-Pen Alphabet

A KEY TO THE CIPHER OF THE FREEMASONS, THE ROSICRUCIANS, AND SCHOOLCHILDREN

Pocket Library Series · No. 4

Each letter is written not by its name but by the shape of the pen it lives in. Find the letter in one of the four figures below and draw the lines that enclose it, and nothing else; the dot marks the second set. To read a message, do the same in reverse: match the shape to its pen, and take the letter that sits in it. The alphabet is set out in full underneath for the impatient.

The four pens. Left to right: letters A to I, letters J to R (dotted), S to V, W to Z (dotted).
